

ATVers: Start your ride right from the Coos Campground!

A suggested half or full-day ride:

Head up to Turks Hill Trail, at the end turn left out to the access road (Garland Pond Road). From there you can either go straight and pass Ellis Pond. Follow trails up to wind turbines, stop and take in the beautiful views, then head back down and follow trails towards Twin Mountains.

Option: turn right onto Lonus Road from Garland Pond Road down to the access road and take Gary's Trail to some fun runs.

Follow the signs to Black

Mountain (please go slow by this family's house as they have animals that wander onto the dirt road). Take a ride up the winding road for a scenic view of Black Mountain, then back down to Twin Mountain to head towards Mexico area. There are some big hills to climb there when you get to the gate, cross the road and bridge then cross Route 17 (uphill, go right to get to access road) and make a loop using access road (you can also take a right on the trail and head directly to Route 2 in Rumford for lunch).

After riding an access road Backkingdom Rd in Mexico turn right onto Drinkuth onto a trail near end of road (please drive slow and watch out for animals in road right before you enter the trail).

There's a nice ride down the trails from there and turn left to make a loop and head to Half Moon Pond: relax and enjoy the view, it's a nice place to take a break and eat a packed snack or lunch!

Option: go straight to head towards Dixfield onto Route 17, then cross over the bridge. There you can stop at the store and get gas or snacks. Follow trails to make your way to Rumford on Route 2 and stop by Sam's Italian Sandwiches for lunch (and gas, too). Continue your journey down by Route 2, following behind Tractor Supply and stay on trails back to Coos Canyon Campgrounds. Depending on how many stops you make, expect this run to take about a half or full day.

Enjoy!
